The berry best of summer fruit

🍓 Consumers are likely to enjoy the best crop of British summer berries in years due to the recent unseasonably warm weather.

The combination of warm days and cool nights has produced a bumper yield of "excellent-tasting berries", according to industry body British Summer

Fruits (BSF). It said consumers can expect a wider selection of British berries this year because of improved varieties and an extended season.

Today is the start of the British strawberry season. By late May all strawberries in supermarkets will be British, BSF said.
